

Monday Pray for Bible Translation in West Africa

Delwyn and Arielle minister among the J people of West Africa. “What a joy to reconnect with friends in the village, seeing the surprise on people’s faces, and also the stories of others who thought we were never coming back. It is true we were gone from the village for a whole year. We praise God to be back and to continue building these friendships in the village. Pray that God uses these friendships to help people hear God’s Word in their language.

“Only after a week of being back in the village with bags all over the house, Arielle graciously let me (Del) start with checking translation work that has already been done. This means translating verses from J back into English to give the translation consultant an idea of what is going on in the translations before she arrives for the translation comprehension check down the road. Over the last four weeks, each day ranged from translating 8-26 verses per day. I have now done 284, not that anyone is counting. This was mentally exhausting and also hard on Arielle because she had been doing everything else in the house. I think we have all the back translation done for now, which is exciting. We will have clearer answers after the comprehension check at the beginning of September. Arielle has graciously unpacked all our bags and unpacked most of our storage. I’m thankful for her help that has enabled me to get so much done. Pray for strength, endurance, and discipline to tackle the next stage of ministry.”

Wednesday Video Testimonies from Amdu Church in Papua New Guinea

Benjamin and Missy Hatton minister among the Amdu people of Papua New Guinea. Their home assignment is coming to an end. “We know that leaving ... will be very difficult. We are going to experience first-hand what our own parents have had to endure each time we say goodbye. But we go rejoicing as we think about the reason we are leaving.

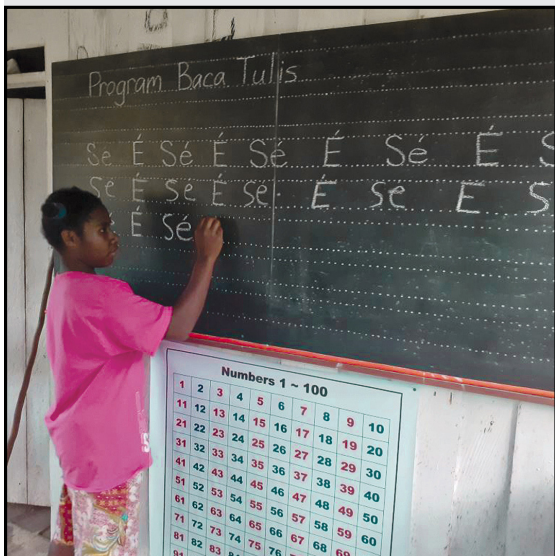

“In the year that we have been gone, our co-workers Bart and Emily Allen have been discipling the Amdu Church. One of the key ways they did this was to teach the believers through the book of Romans.

“They recently sent us a video including testimony from some of our friends talking about what they have learned during their time studying Romans. Hearing what they had to say made our hearts sing and gives us the purpose we need to return, rejoicing.”

Thursday Sponsor the education of future church leaders

Jason and Nisae Williamson minister among the Iski people of Papua New Guinea, but a new area of ministry is with Ramu Valley Academy. “RVA plans to add a grade each year. They’ve been putting up new houses for teachers (most of whom have come from the USA for a short period to volunteer) and have just started on a new class building. We love seeing the school and staff grow! If you’re interested in what it might take to volunteer as a teacher at some point in the future (opportunities anywhere from six weeks to a year), please reach out to us! RVA also offers an internship for college students majoring in ESL. And if you’re interested in helping fund the ongoing construction projects for the school, here is a link to do so: go.ethnos.ca/ramu-valley-academy. The students are also all sponsored by people like you. It takes $500/year from sponsors to complete each child’s school fee. If you’re interested in sponsoring an RVA student for a year, you can give at the link above and specify ‘for sponsorship.’ We hope it blesses you to be able to partner in what the Lord is doing across the world, not only in Iski but now also with Ramu Valley Academy!”

Pray for Elseng Bible Translation in Asia Pacific

Scott and Natasha Flaughter minister among the Elseng people of Asia Pacific. “Thank you for praying for the Elseng Bible translation check! Praise the Lord we had no issues with the internet or electrical power, so [our co-worker] Carolyn was able to be remotely connected! Both Hendrik and his older brother, Serfo, came for all four days of the check, and it was a huge benefit to have them both there. Our translation consultant, Stephen, was a blessing as he fit this check into an already full schedule. We were all greatly encouraged by how well the check went. It was exciting to hear the men clearly understanding the meaning of the Scripture portions that we checked. There were a few places where that wasn’t the case at first; a couple of the passages that we had to work extra hard on were addressing faith and the promised Deliverer, but by the time we finished the check, those were also clearly communicating the right message. As our consultant mentioned, clear understanding of these things is not going to come without a fight. Praise the Lord for granting wisdom and providing the tools to work through those language and mental obstacles so that His Word could go forward in the Elseng language. Hendrik shared that it gives him a sense of pride to have God’s Word in Elseng, a language that [is on the brink of] extinction but is still the heart language of this small group of people. Keep praying for their salvation, brothers and sisters! Pray that Hendrik will work with me on the Bible lessons in the next couple of weeks prior to my trip interior and that those checks will go well also.”
